GRANTS AND FELLOWSHIPS

Funding for International Research

*Due to COVID-19, Yale Law School and the University have suspended its support for international travel until further notice.

The Streicker Fund for Student Research provides support for academic projects requiring international travel. Examples include field research, in-country interviews with relevant stakeholders, and archival research. Research trips are typically conducted during extended academic recesses (e.g., summer or winter break).

The Oscar M. Ruebhausen Fund for student domestic research projects provides support for students to engage in domestic research and pursue academic inquiry and discourse. This fund is part of the larger Oscar M. Ruebhausen Fund.
OTHER OPPORTUNITIES

Apply to be a 2020-2021 Kerry Fellow: Deadline 09/16/2020
The Kerry Initiative at the Yale Jackson Institute for Global Affairs invites applications for the 2020-2021 class of Kerry Fellows. Led by former Secretary of State John Kerry ’66, the Kerry Initiative is an interdisciplinary program that focuses on pressing global challenges through teaching, research, conferences, and international dialogue. Kerry Fellows work with Secretary Kerry and his team on key projects for the Initiative, including conducting research, assisting with conferences on international topics, and helping write journal publications and social media content. All incoming and current Yale students, including undergraduate, graduate and professional school students are eligible to apply. Fellows will be paid a stipend for each semester or summer work period. Apply online here.

ASIL Virtual Midyear Meeting: October 29-30, 2020
The virtual meeting encompasses several events, including leadership meetings of the Society’s Executive Council and the Board of Editors of the American Journal of International Law; the Research Forum, which features cutting-edge international law scholarship by more than 70 authors; and the Practitioners' Forum. Students at Academic Partner schools receive complimentary registration to ASIL’s Research Forum. Registration for the Research Forum is currently open. Interested students can register at www.asil.org/midyear-meeting using the special code APSTUDENT.

American Society of International Law (ASIL)
As an academic partner with the American Society of International Law (ASIL), interested staff, faculty, and students of the University can become a member at a 50% discount. For more information, go to the ASIL website. To sign up, go to http://www.asil.org/membership and click “JOIN ASIL.” On the payment page, you will be able to enter the discount code: ASILACADPART.

Check the YLS website for information regarding other opportunities, including support for student research and activities and post-graduate fellowship opportunities. The Yale University student grants databases also a great resource for both Yale-specific and external funding sources.
Should you be thinking about summer and post-graduate fellowships as well as jobs, we want to draw your attention to a factsheet, available through the YLS landing page of International Law, at the "Career Planning and Fellowships" tile. It is CAS password protected and may be accessed here.
