This YLS community e-newsletter aims to help you navigate events and opportunities relating to international, transnational, foreign, and comparative law.

NOTE FROM OUR DIRECTOR
Mindy Jane Roseman

With the weekly international law programs e-newsletter of 2020-21, it is our pleasure to welcome you--for the most part virtually--to the Yale Law School Community. The core members of the International Law Programs include myself, Mindy Jane Roseman, Director; Bradley Hayes, Program Coordinator; and Aleksandra Kopacz, Program Assistant and also Program Coordinator for the YLS Gruber Program. While we may not be able to meet you in person, we invite you to reach out with any questions via email, and we can set up one-on-one meetings via Zoom or phone.

We hope the International Law Programs e-newsletter is a resource for you. There is an abundance of activities, visitors, and funding opportunities that open a window on international and comparative law, politics, and scholarship that takes place at the law school and across the campus. We do our best to gather that information in a timely fashion so that you can benefit from it. We trust it provides a modest platform from which to build community throughout your law school career and beyond.

Finally, we invite you to help us improve the newsletter by sharing your thoughts, events, notices for student projects and academic publications and getting more involved in international program opportunities. You may contact us at YLS International Programs.

GRANTS AND FELLOWSHIPS

Funding for International Research

*Due to COVID-19, Yale Law School and the University have suspended its support for international travel until further notice.

The Streicker Fund for Student Research provides support for academic projects requiring international travel. Examples include field research, in-country interviews with relevant stakeholders, and archival research. Research trips are typically conducted during extended academic recesses (e.g., summer or winter break).

The Oscar M. Ruebhausen Fund for student domestic research projects provides support for students to engage in domestic research and pursue academic inquiry and discourse. This fund is part of the larger Oscar M. Ruebhausen Fund.

OTHER OPPORTUNITIES

Apply to be a 2020-2021 Kerry Fellow:  Deadline 09/16/2020

The Kerry Initiative at the Yale Jackson Institute for Global Affairs invites applications for the 2020-2021 class of Kerry Fellows. Led by former Secretary of State John Kerry ’66, the Kerry Initiative is an interdisciplinary program that focuses on pressing global challenges through teaching, research, conferences, and international dialogue. Kerry Fellows work with Secretary Kerry and his team on key projects for the Initiative, including conducting research, assisting with conferences on international topics, and helping write journal publications and social media content. All incoming and current Yale students, including undergraduate, graduate and professional school students are eligible to apply. Fellows will be paid a stipend for each semester or summer work period. Apply online here.

American Society of International Law (ASIL)
As an academic partner with the American Society of International Law (ASIL), interested students can become a member for a discounted price. For more information, go to the ASIL website. To sign up, go to http://www.asil.org/membership and click “JOIN ASIL.” On the payment page, you will be able to enter the discount Check the YLS website for information regarding other opportunities, including support for student research and activities and post-graduate fellowship opportunities. The Yale University student grants databases also a great resource for both Yale-specific and external funding sources.

Should you be thinking about summer and post-graduate fellowships as well as jobs, we want to draw your attention to a factsheet, available through the YLS landing page of International Law, at the "Career Planning and Fellowships" tile. It is CAS password protected and may be accessed here.
