

2021-2022 YALE LAW SCHOOL FELLOWSHIP AT THE PERMANENT COURT OF ARBITRATION IN THE HAGUE

The Yale Law School is pleased to announce the 2021-2022 Yale Law School Fellowship at the Permanent Court of Arbitration (PCA) at The Hague. This unique Fellowship is open to graduating Yale Law students and recent alumni who are interested in careers in international law and dispute resolution. It is funded through support from the Howard M. Holtzmann Endowment Fund for International Arbitration and Dispute Resolution at Yale Law School.

The Permanent Court of Arbitration stands at the juncture between public and private international law. Established to facilitate dispute resolution between states, its mandate has expanded to include disputes between various combinations of states, state entities, intergovernmental organizations, and private parties. The Yale Law School Fellowship at the PCA offers Yale Law graduates an incomparable opportunity to work on cases involving issues ranging from territorial boundaries and humanitarian law to disputes under bilateral and multilateral investment treaties and commercial contracts.

Terms of the Fellowship

YLS Fellows will spend one year on the staff of the PCA, beginning in the Fall of 2021. Responsibilities will include significant legal research and drafting. Fellows also will organize and observe hearings and deliberations, help negotiate and resolve issues among arbitrators, and work with the Secretary General to promote the PCA.

YLS PCA Fellows receive a stipend of $47,500 based on a 12-month fellowship term, a contribution towards health insurance (up to $5,000), and reimbursement for one round-trip economy class ticket (up to $1,500) if relocation is required for the Fellowship.

Application Deadline

Complete applications must be received by 4:00 pm on Monday, February 15, 2021. A YLS faculty committee will review all applications.

Application Details

Applications are invited from Yale Law School students and alumni, including JD and LLM students in their final year, YLS doctoral candidates, and recent graduates (up to three years after graduation).

Applicants should submit consolidated application materials, as specified below, to both Aleksandra Kopacz (aleksandra.kopacz@yale.edu) and international.law@yale.edu

In a single PDF, please submit the following materials in the sequence noted below:

- 1) A cover letter, two to four pages in length, outlining the applicant's interest and experience in international law and international dispute resolution. The letter should also include the names and contact information of all referees (including those submitting letters).
- 2) Law school transcript(s) and, where relevant, the transcript of any other postgraduate degree program (unofficial transcripts are acceptable); and
- 4) A curriculum vitae (note: although fluency in languages other than English is not a requirement, please include a description of your language skills).

Letters of Recommendation:

In addition to the above, each applicant should have two letters of recommendation, including at least one from a Yale Law faculty member, sent directly by email to aleksandra.kopacz@yale.edu.
