

Understanding China and the United States: A Professor's Reflections

Professor ZHA Daojiong

Peking University School of International Relations

Professor Zha Daojiong is a distinguished professor at Peking University's School of International Relations. His primary area of expertise is international economic relations, and his work also addresses other issues concerning China and the world, including the United States. Professor Zha is currently a Visiting Scholar at the Paul Tsai China Center, working on issues of global development and areas for Chinese and American collaboration.

to register for the event

Friday September 29, 2023

12:10 – 1:30 PM

SLB 129

Open to the Yale Community, lunch will be served