

YLS STUDENT OPPORTUNITIES AT THE JUSTICE COLLABORATORY

Who we are: The Justice Collaboratory is an interdisciplinary group of scholars at Yale University and beyond. We develop new theories and conduct original empirical research to improve the criminal justice system.

Ways you can participate at the Justice Collaboratory: Occasionally, we will have research projects that require the need for hiring RA's. Note, we are unable to hire first semester 1L's. Notices of those openings will be placed on the Justice Collaboratory website, via The Wall, and occasionally posted on the Sterling Law Building first floor walls. We also send out notices for RA's to our list of interested students. Please see below for contact information to get on that list.

Connect with us: Please be sure to email us at justice.collaboratory@yale.edu to receive our news, job postings, and upcoming events. Also be sure to follow us on Twitter @JCollaboratory.

Visit us: We are located in rooms 422 and 423 on the 4th FL of Baker Hall. Please stop by to introduce yourself!

Members: Below is a list of our current faculty members – we encourage you to sign up for courses (if available to you) with the YLS professors and follow the research of those working outside of the law school.

YLS Faculty Members: Tracey Meares, Tom Tyler (Co-Founders). Monica Bell, Fiona Doherty, James Forman Jr., Miriam Gohara, Issa Kohler-Hausmann, Gideon Yaffe and Howard Zonana M.D.

Yale Faculty Members: Arielle Baskin-Sommers (Psych), Rodrigo Canales (SOM), BJ Casey (Psych), Jennifer Richeson (Psych) and Emily Wang M.D. (Med).
