

Yale Law School

PAUL TSAI CHINA CENTER

耶鲁大学法学院蔡中曾中国中心

Announcement

Fellow / Senior Fellow, New Haven

The Paul Tsai China Center of Yale Law School is seeking applications from lawyers for a position of Fellow or Senior Fellow in the Center's office at Yale Law School in New Haven. This position requires working with senior Center staff to identify, design, and carry out research, academic exchange, and collaborative projects involving U.S., Chinese, and other legal experts on topics relevant to Chinese law and policy reform. Fellows organize project activities; conduct research and writing related to project activities; maintain communication among project participants in China, the United States, and elsewhere; facilitate visits to Yale and the United States by Chinese legal experts; and assist with administering the Center's operations.

Qualifications:

- 1) J.D. degree;
- 2) At least 2 years professional experience or equivalent (preferred);
- 3) Working-level proficiency in Mandarin Chinese, written and spoken;
- 4) Experience in China (preferred);
- 5) Strong organizational skills, entrepreneurial ability to develop new projects, and capacity to work independently;
- 6) Excellent written and oral communications skills.

Interested applicants should send a cover letter, resume (including contact information for references), and a writing sample to the Paul Tsai China Center at china.law@yale.edu. The deadline for applications is April 20, 2018. Applicants will only be contacted if invited for an interview.

Paul Tsai China Center:

The Paul Tsai China Center of Yale Law School is a unique institution dedicated to helping advance China's legal reforms, improving U.S.–China relations, and increasing understanding of China in the United States. The Center's work includes designing and carrying out sustained, in-depth cooperative projects between U.S. and Chinese counterparts on important legal and policy issues, and conducting 'Track II' diplomatic dialogues on key topics in U.S.-China relations.

Since its start in 1999, the Center has maintained an office at Yale University and a presence in Beijing. The Center's small staff of lawyers and scholars have decades of collective experience working on legal and diplomatic relations issues in China. The Center's Director is Professor Paul Gewirtz. A full list of Center staff, and further information about the Center's work, may be found on our website: <https://law.yale.edu/china-center>.

Yale Law School is an affirmative action, equal opportunity, Title IX employer.