

SQUIRE PATTON BOGGS FOUNDATION FELLOWSHIP

The Squire Patton Boggs Foundation is pleased to make available a Squire Patton Boggs Foundation Fellowship grant to Yale Law School for the summer of 2022. This will be the fifteenth year they have made a grant to Yale Law School to students who have finished their first or second years.

The grant is in the amount of $5,000 (SPIF will make up the difference per week up to the 12-week maximum).

To be eligible for the Fellowship, please submit:

- Squire Patton Boggs application with requested (5) written questions attached
- a copy of your resume

Students may seek opportunities in foreign countries and in the United States. The Foundation is looking to select students with a strong interest in international matters, either in Washington or abroad. The firm has offices in several European, Asian, Middle Eastern and Australian cities and they are looking for opportunities to introduce these offices to the Foundation's Fellows. Military veterans are highly encouraged to apply. They also wish to further opportunities for students who contribute to the diverse economic, educational, and ethnic background of Yale Law School's student body.
