GLOBAL TRENDS IN LGBT RIGHTS: PERSPECTIVES FROM ROMANIA, CHINA AND BRAZIL

The fight for LGBT rights saw unprecedented advancements over the last decades. Yet, the rise of conservative political forces, the mobilization of church-sponsored ‘anti-gender’ discourses, the expansion of transnational religious right-wing alliances, or the global trend of crackdown on civil society brought about new threats to LGBT rights around the globe. This roundtable aims to discuss the current situation of LGBT rights in Romania, China and Brazil. It will identify common challenges and strategies to overcome the backlash against sexual orientation and gender identity equality and the lessons to be learned from each country.

Elena Brodeala
Yale Law School (LLM) - University Institute in Florence

Juliana Cesario Alvim
GHJP Visiting Fellow - State University of Rio de Janeiro

Ping ("Hoping") Hou
Columbia Law School (LLM) - LESGO (China)

Friday | January, 19 | 12:10pm
Room 112 | Yale Law School